WOMAN ACCUSES GOVERNOR HOCH OF IMPROPRIETY

Wife of Ex-Governor Stanley Says Kansas Representative Tried to Kiss Her.

SHE RESIGNED FROM CHARITY BOARD.

Governor Is Candidate for Renomination and Declares Story Is Only "Hyena Politics."

TOPEKA, Kan., April 28.—Mrs. W. E. Stanley, wife of ex-Governor Stanley, today made public a statement in which she said Governor Hoch attempted to embrace and kiss her when she called at his office on official business late last year.

Mrs. Stanley was a member of the board of control of State charitable institutions, having been appointed by Governor Hoch. She resigned her position a month ago, but the resignation was suppressed by Governor Hoch, probably because he did not want to make it public before the State convention meets here next week.

The governor is a candidate for renomination and the story of his attempt to embrace the wife of his predecessor has been whispered about among the politicians for some time. After the news of the resignation reached the public, Mrs. Stanley decided that she ought to tell the people her reasons for giving up the place. She declared today that she could not hold it and keep her self-respect.

Mrs. Stanley today would not enter into details of the alleged assault. She simply said that the affair occurred in the governor's private office, while he and she were there together discussing official business. Mrs. Stanley said:

"I realize that the story will be published after the State convention, and I have appreciated for some time that it could not be suppressed. I have shrunk from this thing from the first. There is no reason why I should have received treatment at the hands of Governor Hoch. Our families have been friendly for years, and I assure you that it was a great shock to me.

"I was asked to withhold my resignation, but this I could not consistently do. I have been asked to deny the reports about Governor Hoch's action toward me in his office, but I have told every one who made the request that I would not consent to tell a falsehood to shield Governor Hoch, though I would much rather the facts would not have been made public. I realize that such a report places a woman in an embarrassing position, but I think that my long residence here in Wichita has been such that I am proof against slander. I do not see how I could have done anything else than I did. This report is unfortunately true."

Confers With His Political Friends.

When Governor Hoch learned this afternoon that the story had been printed he called a conference of his friends. He and John Q. Royce, State bank commissioner, J. H. Douley, vice chairman of the Republican State committee, and Charles Sessions, private secretary to the governor, sat in the latter's private office discussing the kind of statement which the governor should make to the newspapers, when Mrs. E. W. Hoch, wife of the governor, came into the office. When the story was told to her she broke down, and a stormy scene is said to have followed. Those in the conference would not say what passed between the governor and his wife, but Mrs. Hoch finally left the office by a side politics going directly to the Executive Mansion.

"Hyena Politics," Hoch Says.

When the governor came into his front office, thirty minutes later, he appeared calm, but showed traces of having undergone a strain. The governor dictated the following statement to the newspapers, and beyond it would say nothing in regard to the affair:

"I do not care to discuss this matter, except to say that the story which has been whispered around by scandal-mongers and has finally found extravagant coloring in print, is grossly untrue and unjust to me. It has been circulated by people who have no interest in or regard for the feelings of either family. I have committed no intentional wrong and hold the person in question in the highest esteem. Did I not occupy the position I do this story would have never been peddled or published. It is the part of hyena politics altogether too common in Kansas."

BALTIMORE CATHEDRAL ONE HUNDRED YEARS OLD

Venerable Seat of Catholicism and the Rev. J. A. McCallen, Who Will Have Charge of Celebration Ceremonies Today.

JAMES CARDINAL GIBBONS.

Baltimore Cathedral One Hundred Years Old

Distinguished Catholic Prelates From All Over the Country Gathered to Do Honor to the Event.

One hundred years ago was begun the historic Catholic Cathedral at Baltimore, Md. Today the advance and perpetuation of the historic see, so long famous for its ecclesiastical connections, will be observed with ceremonies befitting such an occasion.

From far and near prelates have gathered to do honor to the historic edifice and its peculiar influences. With Cardinal Gibbons, dignitaries of every degree will join in the song of Hosanna, and chant the "Te Deum."

Not since the plenary council of 1884 has there been such a notable gathering of Catholic prelates. Twelve archbishops and 100 or more bishops, monsignors, abbots, and leaders of the various ecclesiastical orders will take part in the ceremonies, which will be on a scale of magnificence never before equaled in this church, not even at the national council.

Decorators and gliders have been at work for more than a year on the minarets, dome, and interior of the great cathedral, and those who have not been inside of it for a year or more would hardly recognize it now in its new robe.

Next to the famous cathedral at St. Augustine the cathedral in Baltimore is the oldest in the United States.

A grand procession of all the prelates, priests, and seminarians will begin the exercises today. At 10 o'clock all of the participating officials will assemble at Calvert Hall, and half an hour later

PRESIDENT TAKES SHORT VACATION ON THE POTOMAC

Sails on the Sylph, Accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel.

President Roosevelt yesterday slipped out of Washington for a short vacation and nobody knew the Chief Executive had left until hours after the Sylph weighed anchor in the Washington Navy Yard. He was accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt and their daughter, Miss Ethel, and will remain away until some time tomorrow morning.

It was just a little before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon that the White House coupe drove under the portico. Preceding it was Miss Ethel's jaunty cart. Almost immediately the young daughter of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt came tripping out through the main door. She jumped into the cart, gathered up the reins and was just driving off when her mother and father came out on the porch.

Details of the centennial celebration are in charge of the Rev. J. A. McCallen, of St. Mary's Seminary, who for the last thirty-five years has superintended the ceremonies at the Cathedral.

The order of the procession today will be as follows:

HOUSE TO HOUSE CANVASS YIELDS $30,000 FOR FUND

Approximately That Amount Collected in the District. Exact Figures May Not Be Known Until Monday.

Approximately $30,000 has been contributed to the California relief fund as a result of the house to house canvass. The exact figures, however, will not be known until all of the subscription blanks have been tabulated. It is expected that this will be completed today or Monday.

One of the most satisfactory features of the canvass is the hearty response that has been received from all sides. This sum has been realized by contributions ranging from a few cents to hundreds of dollars.

RECEIVED AT HEADQUARTERS BY MAIL.

The following contributions have been received at the canvassing committee's headquarters either personally or by mail:

J. Miller	$10.00	John Joy Edson, chairman of the committee on canvassing, and Vice Chairman W. Riley Deebie, both expressed themselves highly pleased with the way the people of the city had responded to the call.
Madame Lando	5.00	The citizens' relief committee will meet at the New Willard tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. Reports from all the various subcommittees will be heard, and the general committee will probably vote to disband, although there is considerable finishing up work to be done by the subcommittee.
